More Telling RAF Blows On Italy's Ships

Skies Cleared Of Nazi Planes In Stabs At London

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(P)—From hard-hit Taranto, at the tip of Italy, to Berlin, the royal air force's bombers struck last night, pressing home the offensive which British say has crippled half of Mussolini's battlefleets and given the empire's combined sea-air power prestige throughout the world.

At Taranto, where three battleships and four other warcraft of Italy's hoarded battlefleet were reported crippled by naval torpedo planes flying in from aircraft carriers Monday night, and planes of the RAF bomber command followed up. The ministry of information said that they successfully attacked both harbor and docks, and that all returned to their base (perhaps Malta or Crete.)

In Berlin, British bombs burst in answer to Hitler's newest stroke of diplomacy. They gave Russia's Premier Molotov his first taste of what an air raid is like. Moreover, the air ministry said that the raiders bombed a railway station, freight yards and other objectives in mid-Berlin, despite miserable flying weather.

There was evidence, too, of aggressive British preparation for defense of Far Eastern bases and possessions.

An air marshal, Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, was made commander-in-chief in the Far East with headquarters in Singapore and it was disclosed that reinforcements had reached British bastions in the Orient.

Again Attack Fleet
ROME, Nov. 14.—(P)—British bomber formations, seeking out the seat of Italian naval power in an effort to deliver crippling blows, again attacked the strongly fortified fleet base at Taranto and raided the southern port of Crotone, the high command said today.

British announcements of the damaging of half of Italy's six battleships and two of her cruisers in a Monday night aerial attack were described as "fantastic." On its own account the Italian air force was reported to have counter-attacked the British naval

Holdup At A Filling Station

Two bandits, armed with shotguns, about 2 o'clock this morning, held up Raymond Carver, the station attendant at the Deep Rock Filling Station on South Highway 65. They obtained a full tank of gasoline and more than $30 in cash from the cash register.

Carver reported the holdup to Sergeant P. E. Corl of the State Highway Patrol and Police Officers Howard Nelson and Elmer Bratten. He stated the men driving a dark 1939 Chevrolet coach, drove into the station and asked their gasoline tank to be filled. About 12.9 gallons of gas was put in the tank and as Carver walked around the car to collect he found himself looking down the muzzle of a shotgun.

The second man in the car got out and also had a shotgun. He ordered Carver into the station where he was told to lie down on the floor. The men opened the register, taking all the money except eleven cents. They then ordered Carver to stay on the floor until they left the driveway.

Carver saw them head north on the highway. As he was waking another attendant, Omar DeJarnett, who was asleep in a back room, he heard a car speed back south on the highway and looking out said he believed the bandits were in the car.

De Jarnett said he never knew of the robbery until after Carver awakened him to take over the station for a few minutes.

The car had an Arizona license, similar to a car which was reported by the highway patrol as having held up a station at Plad, Mo., near Lebanon early Wednesday night.

Speakers For Shops Meeting

L. J. Brown and Joseph L. Rosenthal will be the two Sedalia business men who will speak to the employees of the Missouri Pacific Shops, at the first of a series of business men-shop men meetings, at the shops at 12:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

This type of meeting is something new in Sedalia, and every business man in Sedalia is invited to be among those present. The shopmen will assemble in one of the large workrooms, an improvised platform arranged, and the two groups of men will have an opportunity to really know each other.

These meetings will be held regularly, once a month, and two business men will speak ten minutes each.

Former Officer Of B. And P. W. C. Dies

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 14.—(P)—Mrs. Alma Lohmeyer, 62, outstanding business woman and a funeral director for 30 years, died at her home here early today.

She was vice president of the Missouri Business and Professional Women's clubs in 1924 and 1925, and a national vice president of the organization for Missouri in 1926. Funeral services will be at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at her funeral home.

Loss By Fire To Homes Today About $1,300

Chief Damage Is To Rooming House On East Pettis

Fire today did more than $1,300 damage to residences in Sedalia, the largest to a rooming house at 106 East Pettis street, where more than $1,000 in loss is estimated. A $300 loss resulted to a residence at 1517 East Seventh street.

At 6:34 o'clock this morning the companies were called to the residence of Ira Blair, 1517 East Seventh street, where fire started from an overheated furnace. The fire was confined to the basement of the residence while smoke filled the upper part of the house.

The great amount of loss was caused from the smoke, fire officials state. Insurance is carried to cover the loss.

Fire of undetermined origin practically "gutted" the apartment house of Wilson Brown, 106 West Pettis street. Many negroes had rooms in the place and most of them were routed from the place when the fire broke out and saved but little of their belongings.

Two lines of hose were laid so the firemen could fight the flames. They were handicapped because of a narrow hallway and so many rooms in the structure. It was estimated that $1,000 in damage resulted to the house, furnishings and clothing in the place.

Insurance is carried to cover the loss, it was said. April 26, 1939 the companies were called to the same place, where fire did several hundred dollars in damage.

While the firemen were at this fire an alarm was received at 9:59 o'clock to the residence of J. R. Mosier, 1515 West Main street, where paper on a flu cap had caught fire. Slight damage resulted.

Fire Chief John Lueck and Kenneth Middleton, who were at fire headquarters at the time, took the emergency fire truck and answered the call before the other companies had received the alarm.

An overheated flue at the Producers Produce Co., St. Louis street, and Mill avenue, caused a run by the fire companies at 11:51 o'clock Wednesday night. Damage of about $15 resulted.

To date the companies up until noon today had answered 278 alarms, compared with 307 at the same time in 1939.

At 1:05 o'clock this afternoon the fire companies were called to Ninth and Limit avenue, where dry grass had caught fire. No damage resulted.

'Handful' Of Greeks In Rout Of 20,000 Of Italian Troops

By Max Harrelson
ATHENS, Nov. 14.—(P)—Some 20,000 of Italy's finest mountain troops who marched gaily into Greece on Oct. 28 were cut to pieces and routed by a comparative handful of 2,000 Greeks in an eight-day battle which began on the 30th, a wounded Greek captain declared today.

The captain, 37-year-old Panos Kyriakou, propped up in a hospital bed to tell his Homeric tale, said his men toiled for 54 miles through the Pindus mountains in a continual downpour of rain for two days to make victorious contact with the invaders.

The Italians were caught flat-footed, he said, and from that moment the story was one of deadly Greek bayonet charges up craggy slopes, of close-quarter combats with rifles and machine-guns in ravines and passes, and of a panicky Italian retreat.

On Nov. 6 Greek reinforcements took over the job and the weary 2,000 got a rest.

Here is Captain Kyriakou's account of the savage battle:

"The encounter took place on Oct. 30 in the early morning on Mount Goumaris, a peak 5,900 feet high, west of Mount Smolika and six kilometers (about 3 3/4 miles) northeast of the town of Samiris.

Ceremonial By Shriners Saturday

Ararat Temple Group Coming On Special Train

Saturday will be an eventful day in Sedalia. This city will be hostess on that occasion to about one thousand visitors, Shriners and Novices, who will hold one of their colorful ceremonials in this city.

Five hundred members of the Ararat Temple, Kansas City, with many horses, and ceremonial equipment, will arrive in Sedalia at 12:15 o'clock Saturday afternoon, by special train over the Missouri Pacific railroad.

Adolph Glenn,
President Sedalia Shriners

Sedalia and community have about fifty novices to be taken into the organization, and they will be members of a large group that will meet the train. In this group will be Adolph Glenn, the president of the Sedalia Shriners and W. P. Staley, program chairman.

A parade, to form at Main and Osage streets, at 2 o'clock, will proceed through the business section to the high school auditorium.

W. P. Staley,
Program Chairman

Dr. Fred Smith will talk on the Shrine hospital, and present the Shrine hospital patients, at the high school at 3 o'clock, immediately following a band concert.

Business of the organization will then be conducted, continuing until 5:15 o'clock when a patrol drill and a mounted guard drill will take place on Fourth street, just east of Ohio avenue.

Another band concert is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock that night, at the high school, to be followed by the second section of the ceremonial.

The special train will leave Sedalia at 11 o'clock Saturday night.

For Longer Week As Jobs Increase

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—(P)—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of General Motors Corporation, suggests that American industry supplant the five-day with the six-day week as a means of increasing production "when the slack of unemployment has been taken up."

Addressing the Academy of Political Science last night, Sloan asserted the key to national defense "is the strongest, most virile, the most aggressive economy that the creative genius of America can devise."

"Output can be increased 20 per cent by working six days a week in place of five days. It seems clear that this should be the first step, if the point is reached when the slack of unemployment has been taken up and the increasing speed of industry has been utilized to the fullest practical extent."

He said the "penalty for overtime" should be cancelled during the emergency to "encourage a longer work week."

Sloan said he saw inflation as the most striking economic danger today and warned that it must be faced "if we continue on the present road" of "economic fantasies," and that "the defense program serves to accelerate its coming."

"Probably the wage rate presents the greatest danger and the one hardest to control," he continued. "The principle is sound that the defense program should not be made the occasion for increases in wage rates that cannot, generally speaking, be justified."

"The greatest source of inflationary danger at the moment is in the increase in wage rates and its impact on costs. It deserves the most profound consideration."

Banner Taken Spain Requests To Be Restored Loan From U S

Student Council Of S-C To Give It To Columbia High

The Smith-Cotton high school, through its Student Council, will make restitution Friday morning to the Columbia high school, for a school banner, taken from Columbia two years ago by a Sedalia, or Sedalians, not members of the student body, but persons who accompanied the football team to Columbia to witness a game.

The presentation of a new banner to the Columbia high school student body will be made at a school assembly in Columbia at 10:25 o'clock Friday morning by Jack Kreiser and Frank B. Long, president and vice-president respectively of the Smith-Cotton high school student council.

At a game in Columbia two years ago the Columbia school banner—a very expensive one—disappeared. Many Sedalians had accompanied the Sedalia football team to Columbia that day, but no one seemed to know very much about the disappearance of the banner. School officials were unable to learn anything of its whereabouts, and it was not known what became of it until the next year.

Banner Disappeared
Again Sedalia played Columbia. The banner reappeared and was destroyed.

An investigation led the Sedalia school officials to believe that members of the football team and student body were not responsible for the missing banner, but others, interested in the Sedalia school and football players were. This school, they believed was therefore morally responsible for the acts of those who were in their crowd.

The matter was taken up by the student council, sponsored by Miss Edna Snell, faculty member. The boys and girls accepted the responsibility as theirs, and tomorrow restitution will be made publicly in Columbia.

The football game between the two schools will follow that evening.

Not Consent For Bullitt To Quit

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(P)—William C. Bullitt announced today that President Roosevelt had declined to accept his resignation as ambassador to France.

Bullitt issued a statement saying that he had expressed to the President a desire to resign last August and submitted the resignation in writing on November 7.

The ambassador said he had believed he could be of more service to the country if he were free to write and speak without restrictions of public office.

The statement said the President, however, expressed a wish that Bullitt should not resign and that was how the matter stood now.

Still left open, however, was the question of whether he would return to France or be assigned to some other diplomatic post such as London, in connection with which his name has been mentioned.

George T. Yeager, 80 year old well known Sedalian, who passed away at his home, 308 West Third street, early this morning.

Utah Judging Team Is First

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 14.—(P)—Officials of the Future Farmers of America announced today that the Hyrum, Utah, high school team won first place in the organization's dairy cattle judging contest instead of Lubbock, Tex., as was first announced.

They said an error of computation of points resulted in the mix-up. The winning team is composed of Leo Krebs, Verne Krebs and Naray Ormond.

The change place the Lubbock team second, the Marshfield, Mo., team third; Sherrard, Ill., fourth; Melrose, Wis., fifth and Chanute, Kas., sixth.

Officials Cool To It Until Stand With Axis Clear

By LLOYD LEHRBAS
WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(P)—A Spanish request to the United States for a loan of $100,000,000 was reported today in informed diplomatic quarters.

No decision on the loan request has yet been reached, it was stated, and ultimate action was expected to await pending events in the European war and clarification of Spain's position in the conflict.

Some administration officials, it was understood look askance at the Spanish request for financial assistance in view of the bitter attacks made in the government-controlled Spanish press against regard to this country's relation with the United States, particularly in with other American republics, and the Philippines, once a Spanish colony.

The $100,000,000 loan is desired by General Francisco Franco's government, it was said, to feed and rehabilitate a hungry and impoverished Spain, which has been unable to achieve recovery from its long and destructive civil war.

American officials had no comment on the Spanish government's reported request for financial aid.

Plight Is Considered
Summer Welles, acting secretary of state—without mentioning the loan question—disclosed, however, that ways and means of assisting Spain were under consideration by American officials.

He added—significantly, in the view of diplomatic circles—that Spain's economic problems appeared to be a question for the American Red Cross.

The Spanish government has acknowledged Spain's serious food shortage by assuming government sales, and exports and by strictly mental control over production, rationing basic foodstuffs.

Even under severe rationing, there is a serious shortage in many daily necessities. When I passed through Spain recently I found supplies of many foodstuffs extremely scarce, and all prices excessive.

No meat was on sale in Madrid, the capital, and I was told foreigners and wealthy Spaniards, able to afford the luxury, secured meat only by purchases from "bootleggers" who smuggled in small supplies. Potatoes, eggs and chickens also were "bootlegged."

From my observations it appeared Spain's condition was even more serious than France, which observers agree faced a winter of extreme privation, if not actual starvation.

Escape Unhurt In Forced Landing

SWEET SPRINGS, Mo., Nov. 14.—(P)—Pilot Paul Peterson and Navigator Robert Hurst, both of Altoona, Pa., escaped without injury today in the forced landing of their plane on the Ed Dankenburg farm two miles east of Sweet Springs.

The plane struck a fence damaging landing gear and the wing structures. They were enroute from Altoona to Wichita, Kas.

Economy Is Urged To Meet Defense Needs

Keeton Arnett Gives Address To Lumbermen

"Needless governmental expenditures are termites gnawing at the economic foundation which must support national defense. Keeton Arnett, of Jefferson City, executive director of the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey, told two hundred central Missouri lumbermen, assembled at their annual fall meeting, at Hotel Bothwell, this afternoon.

Mr. Arnett was the first speaker on the afternoon program, after Ellsworth Green, Jr., secretary of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce had welcomed the visitors and H. A. Wimer, of Knob Noster, had acknowledged Mr. Green's welcome.

Floyd Douglas, of Windsor, president of the association, presided over the afternoon session. "Reduction in the cost of state and local government is a requisite to the state's welfare," declared the speaker, "and Missouri's taxpayers must unite in a mighty patriotic effort to eliminate the termites and ease the tax burden."

"Missourians now are paying more than 25 cents out of each income dollar in taxes," the lumbermen were told. "Their tax-paying ability is limited and increased national defense taxes must be offset by a lightening of the state and local load."

Call For Rigid Economy
The convention was urged by Arnett to join hundreds of other organizations in Missouri and throughout the nation in calling for a co-operative effort between taxpayers and public officials to apply the most rigid economy possible to all governmental spending units.

"The Missouri Public Expenditure Survey is lending assistance to citizens in every part of the state," he said, "to work constructively for economy and efficiency in government on a program of fact-finding rather than fault-finding. All types of organizations in the state's various communities also are being enlisted in the campaign."

Other speakers to be on the program late this afternoon are: George H. Phillips, and Tom Leigh, field representative of the Associated Producers and Distributors, who discussed "The Gypsy Peddler Problem," and Paul Russell, of Lexington, who will discuss some of the lumbermen's problems.

Election of officers will follow. The lumbermen and the lumberettes will dismiss the more serious problems of the lumber business for the evening, and enjoy a banquet and entertainment in the Ambassador room. A. T. Brink, of Kansas City, presiding as toastmaster, will introduce Rev. R. A. Waggoner, pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian church, to ask the invocation. Mrs. Robert B. Woods will sing a solo, Carolyn Carter will dance, Frank Jones, Jr., of Columbia, will sing, and the address of the evening on "Missouri" will be given by Carl Bolte, of Slater, president of the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce.

"Lumberettes" Entertained
While the lumbermen were attending to business problems in their meeting at the hotel this afternoon, their wives, banded together into an organization known as the Lumberettes were being entertained elsewhere. Mrs. W. M. Johns, of Sedalia, is president of the Lumberettes, and her local organization had arranged to entertain the visitors at the Country club for lunch. They attended a line party at the Fox theatre, later.

Rain May Disrupt Plans Of The Weather Bureau

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(P)—The United States weather bureau has waited for 52 years for a new home and now it looks as if the dedication ceremonies may be spoiled by—of all things—the weather.

Should it rain tomorrow—and rain is just what the weatherman orders—officials frankly don't know what they'll do about the cornerstone-laying, it being a difficult feat to lay a cornerstone from the inside out.

There seems to be only two choices:

1. Let all the participating dignitaries get soaking wet.
2. Postpone the ceremonies.
"We find ourselves," lamented one weather forecaster, "in the same predicament of the millions of Americans whose plans for picnics and outings have hinged on the whims of the elements."

Sentences For Eight Who Did Not Register

Students Were From Theological School In East

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—(P)—Eight theological students who refused to register for selective service were sentenced in federal court today to serve a year and a day in a federal prison to be designated by the attorney general.

The students were "conscientious objectors" from the Union Theological Seminary. When they were indicted Oct. 21 for refusing to register in compliance with the Selective Training and Service Act they pleaded guilty.

The court accepted U. S. Attorney John T. Cahill's recommendation for sentence, while noting that the maximum term possible was 5 years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Federal Judge Samuel Mandelbaum said that if at any time within the period imposed the defendants decided to comply with the act the court would be "only too happy" to moderate the sentences.

Those sentenced were: Richard J. Wichlei, 23, of Binghamton, N. Y., a graduate of Syracuse university; William N. Lovell, 26 of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who was president of the Union

Anxious Work Not Be Slowed

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 14.—(P)—A war department spokesman told an AFL labor group here that defense construction must not be delayed by disputes but promised that present working conditions would be maintained.

The problems of the department relating to labor under the defense program were outlined by Major Sidney P. Simpson, special assistant to the assistant secretary of war.

He spoke at the annual meeting of the building and construction trades department of the American Federation of Labor, which gathered in advance of the general AFL convention starting Monday.

"It is essential to the national defense," said Major Simpson, "that there be no stoppage of work on army construction jobs, whether they are private contracts or not."

He added that any dispute which might arise could be adjusted without halting work. Thus far, he said, the "record of American labor in avoiding stoppages on defense work is a remarkable one."

He said the effective and continuous help of labor in the program was not sought on "any basis of breaking down fair labor standards" because the department proposed to "maintain those standards."

"Right now, our main problem is speed," the major asserted. "But we must keep up quality of the work and we must not load extravagant costs on the rest of the people."

Another speaker, Joseph Keenan, administrative assistant to Sidney Hillman, labor member of the National Defense Commission, said labor could be "proud of its part in the defense program."

He warned, however, that "it is well for labor to act with caution in these times so as to avoid the possibility of incurring public disfavor that may take years to correct."

World Awaits Outcome Of Parleys Held

By Louis P. Lochner
BERLIN, Nov. 14.—(P)—Adolf Hitler and Soviet Premier Molotov have agreed upon a Russian sphere of interest lying generally between Japan's far-eastern influence and Europe and Africa, which Rome and Berlin have allotted to themselves, sources usually in the know divulged today after Molotov had started for home.

With the exception of European Russia and Turkey, all of Europe and Africa will stand under the leadership of the Axis creators, Germany and Italy, these persons said.

Official confirmation of this was unobtainable, since the Wilhelmstrasse has made it plain that nothing will be said beyond this noon's communique, which stated that Germany and Russia have reached "a mutual accord on all important questions of interest" to both.

Indication Of Policies
Inquiries in quarters which always prove reliable on matters of foreign policy developed this picture, however:

1. Russia will have her "grossraum," or vast space of domination, just as the axis and Japan arranged to have theirs by the terms of the three-power pact they signed on Sept. 27.

2. This "grossraum" will not be created at the expense of parties not involved in the present European conflict. In other words, no further slice will be taken out of Finland nor will the Dardanelles be taken from Turkey, provided she behaves in a matter not inimical to the Axis and Russia.

3. Turkey must make up her mind definitely and finally where her place in the future scheme of things. Germany, Italy and Russia all feel confident that Turkey will, in due time, seek an Anschluss with the totalitarian powers.

If any further argument is needed to convince Turkey where her bread is buttered, Russia, with her friendship pact with Turkey, is the obvious partner to present the additional arguments.

4. Whatever compensation Russia may desire in return for her support of the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo

E. E. Woods In Kiwanis Talk

A thought-proving talk on, "Rebuilding Our Ramparts," was given by E. E. Woods, secretary of the Southwestern Lumbermen's Association, Kansas City, before the Sedalia Kiwanis meeting at noon today in Hotel Bothwell. The speaker stressed the need for a revitalized America if our accustomed way of life is to be preserved. Constructive criticism embraced inclination of the citizens to become apathetic, and a tendency to loss of moral fiber.

Mr. Woods was introduced by W. M. Johns. A. H. Wilks was program chairman.

Guy T. Callendar called the club's attention to inauguration of Business Men's Day every third Friday each month beginning tomorrow at the Missouri Pacific shops.

Charles Hestwood, editor of The Retail Lumbermen's magazine, Kansas City, was a guest of Mr. Johns.

President Paul Hedderick announced that because of Thanksgiving Day holiday next week, the regular meeting would be held Wednesday noon.

Following today's meeting, officers and directors met and elected Herbert Schrankler secretary of the club for the ensuing year. This will make the eighteenth successive year that he has served the club in that capacity.

Hobbies For Defense

The United States is calling the roll of brains as well as of brawn. Scientists are registering their technical skills and knowledge for possible defense use. They are filling out great questionnaires on which their special abilities are noted. These are kept in a confidential punch-card file. Later, if the government needs a man who speaks Romansch, has traveled in Afghanistan, or knows all about potato beetles, it will have only to run the cards through the machine.

Hobbies are listed as well as more formal technical qualifications. The amateur photographer, cryptographer, or model-maker may well find that the skill to which he has given his evenings and days off have a definite value to national defense. Hobbies, generally regarded as a harmless aberration, have developed versatility and skills which are actually a defense asset.

Out In The Cold

Left quite literally "out in the cold" by failure of Congress to back up their South Polar expedition, 59 men on the ice of Little America await transport back to the United States.

Congressional funds for continuing the Byrd expedition were refused during the current fiscal year on the ground that war conditions made the work inappropriate. When the Byrdmen finish the sledge and airplane trips of geographic and geologic exploration on which they are now engaged, they will return home.

When they do so, Congress ought to study most carefully the results of their exploration, and then quickly determine whether perhaps it is worth continuing. The richest country in the world, at peace, may abandon such work after deciding that it is not worth while, but not through sheer neglect.

Imaginary Barriers

Jascha Heifetz, the violinist, said a very sensible thing the other day. He was just back from a 25,000-mile concert trip through South America.

"It is plain silly to say that we can't understand our Latin-American neighbors, or that they can't understand us," he said. "I think it is a peculiarly insidious form of propaganda, this emphasizing the alleged 'differences' between North and South America."

Heifetz, a citizen of the world, has found that directly and simply approached, people in South America are "simpatico," just as everywhere, and he regrets that talk of mysterious misunderstandings is possibly preventing young American men from going south to take hold of work that urgently needs them, thus serving both the Americas at once.

A little less emphasis, please, on our differences—a little more on our similarities, which are the similarities of all mankind.

That the people will now unite behind the new president, does not admit of doubt. It is the American way.—General Pershing.

The Electoral College is a relic of the past which serves no useful purpose. . . . Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr.

The Soviet Union has extended its borders, but we can not be contented with what already has been achieved.—Defense Commissar Timoshenko of Russia.

Friendship's a trade—you expect to give, and you expect to get.—Jascha Heifetz, virtuoso of the violin.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

The Convention hall executive committee held a meeting in the office of F. E. Hoffman, Sr., this morning and decided to push the Convention hall work. Mr. Hoffman reported the receipt of 5,000 Convention hall buttons, which will be given to those purchasing stock. Selling is to begin at once.

Rev. Fr. Healy, pastor of St. Patrick's church, informed this paper today that he had decided not to award the contract for construction of the new edifice until next spring.

Tod Cloney left this morning to enter the employ of the American Cereal company.

The annual meeting of the State Federation of Women's clubs at Joplin, as reported by Mrs. Sallie Potter Sneed, was the feature of the meeting of the Club club this morning.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—For about 160 years, the vice-president of the United States has been either a pure figure-head or else a trouble-maker in the family of his chief, the president.

Tom Marshall, vice-president under Woodrow Wilson, is remembered only for his remark: "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar."

Charles G. Dawes, vice-president under Coolidge, became famous when his alarm clock allegedly failed to go off and he arrived at the capitol too late to change a tie vote.

Charley Curtis will only be remembered because of his social war to place his half-sister ahead of Alice Longworth at dinner. And Jack Garner will go down in history because of his private refrigerator and his covert opposition to Roosevelt.

None of these vice-presidents was an active worker for the head of his administration; many of them deliberately hindered it.

Now, however, for the first time in recent history, we have a vice-president who, instead of being a sore-thumb, will be a right hand of the president. Wallace who trained under Roosevelt and can be counted upon to be a great asset, not a deterrent.

It is not supposed to be known yet, but already Wallace has discussed ideas with the president whereby he will work on three important problems. They are:

1. To act as liaison officer between the White House and Congress. This is the most important job of all.
2. To act as a sort of ambassador-at-large in cementing Good Neighbor relations between the United States and Latin America, especially where Congressional affairs are concerned.
3. To formulate plans for shifting the nation's industrial economy from armament to a normal basis, after the war is over.

Wallace Studies Spanish

These plans are not casual gestures; Wallace is very serious about them. Regarding the Good Neighbor program, for instance, he has been studying Spanish for months, and soon will visit Costa Rica, Mexico and Panama, in order to polish his Spanish further.

And regarding plans for shifting the nation's economy to a peace-time basis when the war is over, Wallace already has asked two advisers to draw up recommendations on this, particularly a plan to decentralize overcrowded industrial centers by a nation-wide low-cost housing program.

Aside from these, however, one thing is certain. Henry Wallace will not confine himself to calling the Senate to order at 12 o'clock noon. He will be the most hard-working gentleman to occupy the vice-presidency for many, many years.

Japanese Ambassador

Admiral Namura, who is expected to be the new Japanese ambassador to the United States, served for many years as naval attaché in Washington, where he became a genuine friend of U.S. naval officers. He was realistic, hard-boiled, but a genuine friend. Also he had a forthright sense of humor.

One illustration he gave of U.S.-Japanese relations is important to remember now. It shows what the Japanese think of us—perhaps with some justice.

"You in the United States," said Admiral Namura, "have been brought up on beauty rest mattresses. You have gramophones, radio, automobiles, plenty of good food. You don't want to fight."

"But in Japan, we have no beauty rest mattresses. To our peasants, a plain board is luxury to sleep on; while food in the barracks usually is better than that which a soldier gets at home. So our people are tough, your people are soft. That's why you won't fight."

Admiral Namura was referring not to a possible Japanese attack against the United States, but to the possibility that the United States might fight in the far eastern part of the Pacific to protect the Philippines or parts of China.

Admiral Namura, forthright, and honest, may find a different nation facing him today. However, his reports to Tokyo should be a big aid in helping Japan and the United States to avoid rows, and really understand each other.

More G-Men

Along with the speed-up in production of airplanes and tanks, there is a much less heralded speed-up in the production of G-men.

J. Edgar Hoover is now turning out special agents of the FBI at the phenomenal rate of 40 a week. The training course has been cut down from 15 weeks to 7 weeks, but the work is more intensive. And according to Hoover, mass production brings no decrease in quality.

Formerly, the Federal Bureau of Investigation had only 900 special agents, but a recent congressional authorization boosted the figure to 1,500. Hoover now has almost attained that mark, with 1,340 trained and 160 more to be produced.

One man who graduates from the FBI school represents 1,000 who have tried for admission and failed. "Anybody who has read Sherlock Holmes," says Hoover, "thinks he can be a special agent. We get all kinds. Even psychics, and people who think they can solve crimes by looking at the stars."

Campaign Buttons And Tin Reserves

The presidential campaign is over. There is no longer any use for campaign buttons, except for a few that will be saved as souvenirs or gravitate into historical museums.

In the meantime, the government is piling up metal reserves, and is storing up tin. Inasmuch as the Republicans are estimated to have put out 50,000,000 Willie buttons and the Democrats 21,000,000 Roosevelt emblems, the whole lot would make a pretty impressive pile of scrap metal for use in the defense program.

As they were melting in the furnaces of some great armor-plate or shell plant, they would make a good symbol of the manner in which partisanship must fuse together into one united purpose to be strong.

That Man Wallace—

There is temptation for Roosevelt-haters to palliate their disappointment over his election by seeking a new victim through transference of animosity to Vice President-elect Henry A. Wallace.

Sweeping the country is a unity program that has such public acceptance of support for Roosevelt, that the FDR-haters are without a target. Wallace is very much in line of succession to the presidency. It is natural for the haters to cast querulous glances in his direction.

Wallace's mistakes as Secretary of Agriculture are magnified above what good he has accomplished. His campaign speeches had a saline flavor. The voice was the voice of Wallace, but the words were those of Democratic ghost-writers. The vice presidential candidate didn't believe a fraction of what he was compelled to say. Someone had to do the mucky job of speechmaking and the lot fell to Wallace. During his next four years of service he has ample time to live down this phase of campaign life.

Right now Wallace is in much disfavor among the electorate. There is a tendency to perpetuate a remembrance of his mistakes and deficiencies. But we must recollect that he has been learning governmental operations the hard way, and it is only charitable for citizens to reevaluate this man. A great task is before him, and it may be that Henry A. Wallace will evolve into a strong leader. Call this wishful thinking if you choose.

None can deny that in Henry A. Wallace this country will have the hardest working vice president in many, many years, to borrow a phrase from today's Washington Merry-Go-Round. We commend the reading of the column on this page today as it pertains to Mr. Wallace.

Perhaps we are beginning to see through a glass, not darkly but with clear-sighted vision. It is better to become reconciled to an optimistic evaluation of our national leadership than to entertain passive and obstructionist resistance.

Despite his fumbles and misgauged passes on the second team, Henry A. Wallace in the new administration backfield may turn out to be an All-American player. There are plenty of similar examples of such successes over mediocrity on the gridiron. It is not too much to expect their recognition in the nation's executive playing field.

KruGon PROVED A BLESSING FOR HER

Back Pained Continually, Nerves Were Upset, Sleep and Rest Had Been Impossible; Had Grown Gradually Weaker

"I have never experienced a medicine as effective as KruGon," said Mrs. Margaret Shoup, Route No. 1, Pittsburg, Kansas. "Intestinal impurities filled my body from a stubborn case of constipation."

MRS. MARGARET SHOUP
tion allowing me such horrible suffering I felt I could not endure it at times. This condition had been persistent for the past twenty years and such dreadful aches and pains developed in my joints and muscles until I was sore and stiff all over. I was up from three to four times every night with irregular bladder action which disturbed my rest and sleep, back pained continually and I became so nervous I would often lay awake for hours unable to sleep. My digestion was very poor too and I could not eat a single meal without miserable suffering afterwards. But this was all before I had learned of KruGon and gave it the chance to help me."

"I am so well pleased with the KruGon," continued Mrs. Shoup. "Now that stubborn case of constipation has been relieved and my bowels are regular in eliminating those impurities that caused me so much misery. That stiffness and soreness is gone from my muscles and joints, digestion is good, sleep well without any disturbances and those back pains have been relieved too. I cannot say half enough in praising a medicine with such ability as KruGon possesses."

KruGon is sold by McFarland and Robinson Drug Co., 104 W. Main St., this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns.

Society And Clubs

A program of Early American Music was interestingly presented by members of the Helen G. Steele Music club at the regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Heard Memorial clubhouse.

It was the first of a series of programs outlining the progress of our national music from the earliest colonial days to the present time. Mrs. A. R. Beach arranged and directed the program.

After the opening of the business session Mrs. E. F. Yancey, president, introduced Mrs. Harry Sneed who spoke on the Red Cross. Mrs. Sneed told the story of Florence Nightingale, the founder of the Red Cross, and urged everyone to assist in the Red Cross drive by joining.

Mrs. H. C. Johnson reported a very good sale of the symphony tickets and voiced approval and pleasure in the Sedalia Symphony concert presented Tuesday night.

Miss Berenice Wood gave a report on the Fifth District convention of the Missouri Federation of Music clubs, held at Eldon, October 15.

Mrs. Beach presented the study club type of program on American Music—Early Days, the subject of the afternoon. She recounted a short history of early Puritan hymns, telling how music was rendered only as an aid to worship, not for its own sake alone. There were very few tunes, and these were changed and corrupted in different localities, she related.

About 1720 a movement was in progress to devise more tunes, make them more rhythmic and teach them generally to congregations. The oldest available hymn known to us today, Mrs. Beach said, is "Old Hundred" or our doxology. Led by Mrs. Beach the entire club sang the old song.

"Come Thou Almighty King" was sung in unison by the club, to Whitfield's tune, which we know as "America".

As an illustration of music as it was studied in the eighteenth century, Mrs. Beach read some of Rev. Thomas Walter's "Rules for Tuning the Voice" (1721).

Two hymns from Tansur (1755) were sung by the study club "St. Martens" and "The King of Love My Shepherd Is".

At this period secular music had been gradually gaining development, and the first concert on record was in Boston. Bethlehem, Pa., founded by Moravians, sponsored music as a cultural advancement for their own community.

Many concerts and programs were given, mostly presenting European composers. There is a record of a "Philharmonic" there early in the eighteenth century.

Mrs. George Peak sang "Amazing Grace", an eighteenth century hymn of the new order—more rhythm and a distinctive melody. Following her sol., short dissertations on several early American composers, Tucker, Hopkinson, Lyons, Billings and Holden, were given by members of the study group.

The entire club sang "All hail the Power of Jesus' Name", to Holden's Coronation tune. The well known composers during the latter part of the eighteenth century were Morgan, Silvey, Adgate and Hewitt.

"My Faith Looks up to Thee" by Lowell Mason, was sung by the entire club. Following this, three lesser known hymns were sung by the study group: "O, Could I Speak the Matchless Worth", "Hark, Ten Thousand Harps" and "Watchman, Tell Us of the Night".

Thomas Hastings, a contemporary of Mason left a large contribution of hymns, one of which was sung by the whole assemblage, "Rock of Ages". The study group then sang "Majestic Sweetness Sits Enthroned", another of Hastings' famous hymns.

Webb's "Stand Up for Jesus", in the old version, was sung by the club, then Mrs. T. E. Gasper-son sang a modernized version.

The period at the turn of the century saw few secular compositions except the patriotic airs, it was brought out, "Yankee Doodle" was one of these tunes, originated by the British to taunt the American troops. It first appeared in print in 1782. The music club sang four verses of this famous air.

"Hail Columbia", by Hopkinson, was given as a solo by Mrs. J. M. Ryan, and then the program was closed by the whole club singing "The Star-Spangled Banner".

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. C. K. Parsons and Mrs. J. A. Muster.

The Lioness' club met at the St. Francis hotel Wednesday evening for a 7 o'clock dinner. A short business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. Vivian Kindred, followed the dinner.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing Liverpool rummy.

The Rebekah Home club, No. 125 will meet Friday, in an all day meeting, at the home of Mrs. Ellen Skaggs, 406 North Grand avenue.

A most enjoyable day was spent at the home of W. B. Hoard and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hoard of near Leeton Sunday, when all of W. B. Hoard's children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, with the exception of one grandchild, Junior Hoard, who was unable to be present, gathered to spend the day.

All contributed to a most delicious dinner consisting of turkey and all the trimmings which was served at the noon hour.

Those attending were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hoard, Lyle, Maxine and Geneva, Mr. and Mrs. George Ray, Mi. and Mrs. Guy Ray, Katherine, Jean and Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ray, Louise and Walter Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Arnett, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Arnett, Mr. and Mrs. John Youse, Walter, Verna Marie, and J. W. Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Hoard, Bobby, Charles and Bessie Ellen, all of Green Ridge; Mr. and Mrs. Harley Hoard and Dixie Carol of Lawrence, Kas., Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Ray of Higginsville; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hoard, Loren and Jean, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ball and Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wimer and Marion of Sedalia; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lee, Glenn and Dennis Dale, of Beaman; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hoard and W. B. Hoard of Leeton.

The annual business meeting of the Sedalia Garden club will be held at the Sedalia Public Library at 2:15 o'clock Friday afternoon, November 15.

All Garden Club members are urged to attend.

Church Events

The women of the Evangelical Reformed church Guild will observe the Guild's birthday with a covered dish luncheon, at the church, at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. All women of the church are invited.

The W. F. C. Sunday school class of the First Baptist church met at the home of Miss Marian Laudenberger, 409 West Seventh street, Tuesday evening.

After a short business meeting the devotional was led by Mrs. Dan Carr, Jr.

Games whiled away the remainder of the evening and at a late hour refreshments were served. Those attending were, Misses

Ann Fletcher, Adele Lingle, Roberta Leazer, Mrs. Dan Carr, Jr., and Mrs. E. A. Steele.

S-C Tigers Vs. Columbia In Last Game

Coach Benson Makes Several Changes In Lineup For Friday

Friday night the Smith-Cotton high school will play their last Central Missouri Conference game at Columbia with the Hickman high school team of that place. The game is scheduled for 7:45 o'clock under the lights.

Smith-Cotton has a chance of getting in a tie with Columbia for first place honors in the conference providing they win the game. It is evident the local team will fight hard for these honors according to reports from practice the past few days.

Coach Benson, however, is not entirely satisfied with the results of practice of several of the players and he has made some last minute shifts in the lineup. However, he says the boys have been practicing the past three days hard and are anxious to end the season with a victory, especially against Columbia.

A definite decision has not been reached about taking the Tiger band to Columbia for this game. Weather conditions have been such it was thought inadvisable to do so, but if it warms somewhat Friday the parents plan on motoring the band over early in the evening.

La Marle's first official act as a pro was to accept a week's engagement to Warmie in a Broadway theatre, beginning Dec. 28. . . . Attention, Yanks and Giants: Both Hank Greenberg and Frank McCormick, voted the most valuable players in the two big leagues, are products of New York's Bronx. . . . Around here the boys think Jimmy Wilson already has signed to manage the Cubs, despite denials from both sides. . . . Glad to see the PGA finally got around to letting down the bars for Ed Oliver.

Miss Marble bounced back into the papers yesterday by predicting Helen Jacobs would succeed her as queen of the amateurs. . . . James Joy Johnston is burned up because Illinois ruled out his Tommy Tucker as an opponent for Billy Conn. . . . A baseball man who usually knows what's going on wires that if Jim Farley buys the Yanks he'll use money provided by stockholders of the soft drink firm which recently made Farley an officer. . . . Personal: Will Mr. Scoggins of Charlotte, N. C., who wrote this department recently, please send his address? . . . The Inverness club of Toledo gave Byron Nelson a big dinner and fat purse for his fine work on the links this year.

One Minute Interviews

Gabby Hartnett: Was it a surprise? . . . Jock Sutherland: Sammy Baugh's passing never will be any better than it was against us Sunday for the very simple reason that there couldn't be better passing. . . . Babe Horrell: I don't think any team in the country can keep Stanford from scoring. . . . Chick Meehan: Over emphasis on football is what you keep out of the papers. De-emphasis is what gets in.

Richardson Is Top Of Gainers

SEATTLE, Nov. 14—(P)—Jimmy Richardson, the "one man gang" from Milwaukee's Marquette University, soared from Twelfth to first place as the nation's leading gridiron ground gainer with his sensational showing against Manhattan in last week's 45-41 track meet.

Figures released by the American football statistical bureau show that it was no fault of Richardson's that his team lost. All he did against Manhattan was run the ball 175 yards and pass it 183 for a total of 358 yards of his team's 409 yard net. He threw eight of his team's nine pass completions, then dangled down the fairway to catch the other one.

His total of 1,055 yards for six games placed him ahead of a couple of 1939 leaders—Johnny Knolla or Creighton and Paul Christman of Missouri. Knolla ranks second with 986 yards and Christman rose from eighth to third by boosting his total offensive yardage to 980.

Al Gresquire of Detroit retained his lead as the top rusher with 752 yards in seven games, substantially topping Tom Harmon with 613. Harmon, for weeks the total offensive leader, tumbled to seventh in that classification after running into the Minnesota mud.

With snow disrupting the air-mail, no figures were received on Princeton's passing Dave Allerice, so on the basis of five games he drops to second place as a pass-offensive threat and Washington state college's wiry Bill Sewell ascends to top position.

Sewell in seven games has thrown the ball 120 times, completing 57 for 706 yards. He had 12 intercepted. His 120 tries makes him the aerial workhorse.

Owen Price of Texas mines retained his punting lead although figures were unavailable on his last game.

Gallagher To Be Cub General Manager In '41

Sports Writer Appointed Today By Wrigley

CHICAGO, Nov. 14—(P)—James T. Gallagher, baseball writer for the Chicago Herald American, was appointed general manager of the Chicago Cubs today by President Phil K. Wrigley.

The Cub president announced at the same time that Charles (Boots) Weber had resigned as treasurer of the club and William L. Veeck, son of the late Cub president had been named to succeed him. Weber will remain as vice president to serve in an advisory capacity to Gallagher and Veeck.

Gallagher, a native of Lorain, O., is 36 years old and has been writing baseball since 1933. He attended the University of Notre Dame in 1925 and 1926 and worked on newspapers in Lorain and South Bend, Ind., before coming to Chicago in 1928.

He will join the Cub staff Monday.

Gallagher said a new manager to succeed Gabby Hartnett whose dismissal was announced yesterday, would be signed before the Minor League meetings at Atlanta, Ga., next month.

The appointment of Gallagher, and the changes in the positions of Weber and Veeck, followed yesterday's surprise announcement that Hartnett's contract would not be renewed.

Hartnett was dismissed after 19 years with the Cubs as catcher and manager. Speculation on the identity of Hartnett's successor revolved around:

1. The report that Jimmy Wilson, catcher and World Series hero with the Cincinnati Reds, already had reached an agreement with the Cubs following a surprise visit here last week.

2. A remark by Wrigley, who responded to a statement that Wilson would "make a good manager," by saying "I think so too."

3. The fact that a few days ago Billy Meyer, Kansas City manager, received the permission from his employers, the New York Yankees, to negotiate for a major league position. (Yesterday Meyer declined to comment when asked if he was to become manager of the Cubs.)

4. Other Wrigley assertions that "there are major and minor leaguers on the list," and "I don't want to be accused of tampering as all the men we've in mind are under contract."

Wrigley promised only that the new man would be picked before the winter baseball meetings starting December 4.

No Bid By Wilson

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14—(P)—Jimmy Wilson, the 40-year-old member of Cincinnati's championship baseball team, says he is "very happy" with the Reds and is not making a bid to pilot the Chicago Cubs.

Asked if he was a candidate for the job left vacant by Chicago's dismissal of Gabby Hartnett, Wilson said:

"I would give the matter deep consideration if I were approached but I certainly am not going to make any bid for the job. My connections and position with Cincinnati are the finest. I am not only very happy there but more than satisfied with all arrangements."

Turkey Shoot Be Held By Elks

The B. P. O. Elks Lodge No. 125 on Sunday will sponsor a turkey shoot to be held in the coliseum at the Missouri State Fair grounds. Extensive arrangements have been made by the committee in charge to give all sportsmen something to enjoy indoors with their guns.

The shoot will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning and continue through the day until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. There will be coffee, sandwiches, and cold drinks served.

Frank Forler, chairman, in charge announced there would be a large number of turkeys, geese, and ducks to be won by the gunners who are the best in marksmanship.

Money made will be used for charitable work done by the Elks, lodge especially in the purchase of eye glasses for those who are unable to obtain them other than through the Elks.

Number '44' A Worry For Oklahoma

'Pitchin' Paul,' Very Nervous Young Man But Doesn't Show It

By Harold Claassen

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 14—(P)—You'd never guess as he lounges about during a football battle, his number "44" reminding you all the time of his pistol-like passing accuracy, that Paul Christman of Missouri is a nervous young man.

You'd never suspect that this Tiger pass master, who also has a reputation for the flippant quip, doesn't eat the day of a game because if he did "it feels like the entire Russian army is encamped in my stomach."

And you'd never realize, watching him pass three times from behind his own goal line—he did it against Colorado—that he was the fellow who spent an hour in church that morning.

His fastings and his meditation are as much a part of his gridiron training as the Wednesday night scrimmage ever since he was a St. Louis prep player.

Last year during the Nebraska game Christman was dumped to the ground, only to bounce up with an aside to Cliff Jones, Husker coach, "What do you teach 'em, Cliff, tough football?"

The Impossible

Oklahoma scouts who watched him at Boulder Saturday credit him with "the impossible"—talking an official out of a decision. "He was so cool and nonchalant and knew so well everything that was going on out there that he even talked an official into reversing his decision," they reported. "The Sooners had better watch him Saturday or he'll talk them right out of the game."

It is all sham. Underneath Paul was as jumpy as a coed at a sorority party.

Christman, who has thrown 11 touchdown passes in seven games this season, attributes much of his outward calmness to Jack Kinnison, great Missouri center of two years ago.

In their first big game together Missouri was trailing with only minutes to go. Christman had just connected with a pass and the sophomore was fading back for another when Kinnison, blocking out an opposing end, said "Take it easy kid, we've got plenty of time."

Christman did and Missouri won.

Passing Record

All season he has been taking his time. He has tossed 119 passes, 53 of them reaching their marks and only 10 being intercepted. The completed aeriels netted 923 yards, an average of 17 1/2 a toss.

The Missouri Tigers added jackets and gloves to their equipment as protection against the cold in yesterday's practice. They learned several new plays and worked on polishing up the old ones. Kansas State avoided the cold by traveling to Fort Riley and working out in one of the cavalry's huge riding halls.

The Iowa State Cyclones and the Kansas Jayhawkers drilled outdoors. The Kansans trotted through an hour of tapering off preparations for the George Washington game.

A nifty performance was turned in by Huel Hamm, Oklahoma so-

Stanford Heads For Rose Bowl

By Russell Newsland

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14—(P)—Fourteen blondes and a redhead couldn't drag confirmation of this from Stanford, but—if the Indians whip Oregon State in their football game Saturday they probably will begin beating the bush immediately for a stand-out Rose Bowl opponent.

Alfred R. Masters wouldn't say "Yes," but he didn't say "No," either. As athletic boss of Stanford football he will be charged with the duty of rounding up the other half of the New Year's day classic. And all that stands in the way is for his team to flash the "Go" signal with a win.

Stanford, if it knocks off Oregon State, has another slambang rival waiting 'round the corner if it is California. The Bears have been getting tougher every week. At their worst they'll give Stanford a rousing battle. It is one of those games for blood.

Facts pyramid to this conclusion With a win over Oregon State, Stanford could lose to California and still finish in at least a tie for the coast conference title. Washington, with a sweep of its remaining three games, could tie Stanford.

The ten conference members vote the western team into the Rose Bowl. Stanford punched out a 20-10 victory over Washington last week. In case of a tie Stanford would expect, with confidence, the call over a team it already had defeated.

As to a Rose Bowl opponent, the speculative field appears ready for a boom. At present there are Cornell, Minnesota, Texas A. & M., Tennessee, Notre Dame, Boston College and Georgetown among the bigger name colleges with unblemished records.

LEAVE IT TO A HUSBAND to appreciate Pillsbury's Best baking!

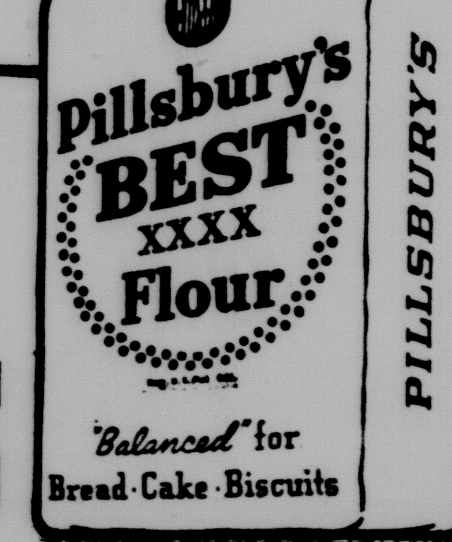

"The first time I baked with Pillsbury's Best, my husband noticed the difference!" says Mrs. Frank Graff of Chicago, Illinois

"... when I was first married, I wasn't satisfied with the baking I was doing. So I tried Pillsbury's Best in some simple cupcakes... the kind of food where you can really tell how a flour acts. Those cupcakes came out fine... so light and delicate. My husband noticed the difference, and said to keep on using Pillsbury's Best. I have, and I use it for everything..."

GUARANTEED

For everything you bake; every time you bake Pillsbury's Best Flour is made from a "balanced" blend of wheats and has our money-back guarantee to give you perfect satisfaction in everything you bake... bread, cakes, biscuits, pastry... every time you use it.

You men who pay the bills might like to read this: Do you know that every year we reject—refuse to buy—hundreds of thousands of bushels of wheat? We wish you could see the results of the baking tests we run on that wheat, as compared with the results from the fine wheats we do buy for Pillsbury's Best Flour. If you could, you'd begin to understand why the baking your wife does with Pillsbury's Best is better... and you'd see exactly why she's telling you the truth when she says "good flour is real economy in the long run."

Thousands of happy husbands are carrying Pillsbury's Best home from the grocery store every week. Why don't you join them?

Women's fine silk hose, silverware, watches, coffee makers, cast aluminum ware, and a host of other fine items are yours in exchange for Pillsbury's THIRTY STAR Flour. Report Mutual Accord Between Soviet-Nazi arrangement for a "new world" must come from a "bankruptcy inventory" of the British empire. German sources seem certain that Molotov, speaking for Stalin, considers Britain already defeated, just as does the Axis.

5. If the Soviet Union should desire to realize her age-long dream of obtaining access to the world's oceans, say via Iran or Afghanistan and British India, she will find the Axis powers "disinterested." In other words these powers will raise no objections.

6. All parties concerned will join in efforts to bring about a non-aggression pact between Russia and Japan, as a result of which Japan, too, will show her "disinterest" in those regions which Russia regards as part of her "grossraum."

Molotov and his retinue left Berlin at 11 a. m. (3 a. m. CST) after two days of conferences with Adolf Hitler and other high Nazi leaders.

The communiqué issued soon after his departure said: "During his visit to Berlin on Nov. 12-13, 1940, chairman of the People's Council and Foreign Minister Molotov had talks with the fuhrer and reich's foreign minister Von Ribbentrop.

"An exchange of views was carried out in an atmosphere of mutual trust and led to mutual accord on all important questions of interest to Germany and the U. S. S. R."

Speculation On Turkey
Although it was stated authoritatively that little, if anything, beyond this communiqué would be disclosed about the conferences, informed sources indicated that it was now up to Turkey to decide whether she would join the forces creating "a new order" in Europe or whether she would stand aside from or even oppose them.

(As the Russian-German conferences began, there was widespread speculation, never confirmed in Berlin, that the talks would center largely upon the role of Turkey, friend of Britain, in the near eastern phase of the war.)

Informed sources expressed the opinion that new developments would result from the conferences not only in Europe, but beyond the European continent. They doubted, however, whether these developments would become visible immediately. They intimated that immediate action resulted usually only after Fuhrer Hitler conferred with Benito Mussolini.

While brief, the official communiqué, authorized sources said, "is of such monumental import that any commentary thereon would be tantamount to a limitation of it."

The talks between Molotov and the ranking German leaders, it was said, were so complete and all-embracing that no early visit to Moscow by Von Ribbentrop is contemplated.

Such a visit had been conjectured, authorized observers said, but now it is quite unnecessary.

World Awaits Outcome
While the world awaited concrete manifestation of the outcome of the parleys here, Germany and Russia lost no time in resuming their economic negotiations.

Karl Schuene, head of the German economic delegation to the U. S. S. R., returned on Molotov's train to Moscow, as did the German ambassador to Moscow, Count Friedrich von der Schulenberg. The German delegation had been in Moscow for some time before Molotov's visit.

Molotov was accompanied to Anhalter station by German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, with whom he had a final conference of several hours last night after a brilliant formal reception at the Russian embassy.

A large group of high German officials was waiting at the station to bid farewell to Molotov following the usual brief military ceremonies.

British warplanes lent a touch of excitement to the Russian statesman's visit last night in the German capital by raiding the city for the first time since his arrival Tuesday morning.

An official announcement said the raiders dropped bombs "aimlessly over the outermost suburbs" but declared strong anti-aircraft defenses had kept them away from the center of the city.

Some fires were started in the outskirts of the capital but they were quickly extinguished, the announcement said.

(Zurich, Switzerland, had a brief air raid alarm at 11:45 p. m.—4:45 p. m. CST)—and a German plane later crashed in a neighboring canton.)

Closer Relations

MOSCOW, Nov. 14.—(P)—Red Star, Soviet army organ, said today the visit to Berlin of Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov would bring "a strengthening and development of Soviet-German relations in the interests of both countries."

This was the first Soviet comment on the premier's trip since a communiqué on Nov. 9 announced his acceptance of the German invitation to visit Berlin.

nificance. There is no doubt that the renewal of personal contact and a friendly exchange of opinions with leaders of German policy will make for further strengthening and development of Soviet-German relations in the interests of both countries."

Red Star also included a review of the American election, seeing no change in United States policy following Roosevelt's victory.

'Handful' Of Greeks In Rout Of 20,000 Of Italian Troops

boxes of hand grenades and ammunition, strewn over the pass. "At 3 p. m. my battalion attacked, pressing around Distrato. A fight developed in the ravine while I was trying to climb Mount Smolika to gain a dominant firing position.

"A night attack launched by more battalions drove the Italians back north of Smolika and threw them into the ravine.

Fought For Six Days

"There the fighting continued for six days. The Italians, being chased back from hilltop to hilltop managed to take advantage of the terrain to circle about.

At 1 p. m. on Nov. 5 I received orders to attack and occupy a strategic height with one company of infantry. The height was held by about 400 Italians with full equipment. They were supported by batteries on a hill 1,000 yards away, but by 2:10 p. m. the height was taken, with the Italians driven back, leaving behind 64 dead and wounded and 27 prisoners.

"I was wounded in this engagement. The Italians, fighting in small groups of about 25, retreated in panic. My forces carried on the fight through Nov. 6 when reinforcements arrived. My men were so enthusiastic that I could not hold them back.

"They are all from Athens and Piraeus. They played a very important role in halting the invaders, for if they had not stopped the Italians the advance would have reached the highway at Grevena.

"On Nov. 6 the Italians still were being hotly pursued in the direction of Koritza when the retreat developed into an irregular flight, the Italians throwing away their equipment.

"Up to 8 o'clock that night, we had taken about 800 Italians prisoner and killed about 1,100.

"On the snow-covered summit of Mount Smolika, which is 8,500 feet high (highest in that region) about 250 Italians were killed by bayonet charges and machine gun fire.

Panic To Column
"At 9 o'clock on the night of Nov. 6, an Italian cavalry column coming from the direction of Koritza to assist the retreat was held and dispersed and itself retreated in disorder.

"Panic spread to the whole column. They threw away everything they had in order to flee more quickly.

"We tied our prisoners together with ropes in groups of 18 and led them back, each group being escorted by two Greeks.

"They made no resistance. On the contrary, they seemed pleased at their capture.

"Throughout the fighting, Italian planes with Greek colors machine gunned and bombed the Greeks. During the first day they flew as low as 1,000 feet.

(Italians have denied previous Greek charges that Italian planes bore Greek markings, indicating they may have been inspired by the fact Italian warplanes have as tall insignia the white cross of the House of Savoy on a blue or red field with a crown in the center. The Greek national emblem is similar, they said.)

"Afterwards, however, they dropped bombs from great heights, not daring to fly low again.

"Practically all the prisoners we took were young men 20 to 25 years old, many of them wearing beards like that of the late Italian marshal Italo Balbo."

The figures given by Kyriakou did not cover the period since Nov. 6, during which the government has announced annihilation of the greater part of an Italian invasion.

Relief In Sight From Icy Blasts

By The Associated Press.

Subzero cold again froze much of the middle west today but relief was approaching the plains states where rising temperatures were forecast for tonight or tomorrow.

The toll of known dead in the areas ravaged by extreme cold for this time of year and one of the worst Great Lakes storms in decades stood at 108, not including 51 missing sailors.

Valentine, Neb., with 16 below zero was the coldest spot in the nation at 6:30 a. m. (CST), official records of the weather bureau showed. Lennon, S. D., with 24 below was the coldest last night.

Other subzero morning readings included Huron, S. D., —13; Bismarck, N. D., and North Platte, Neb., —8; Williston, N. D., —7; Devils Lake, N. D., Sioux City, Ia., and Pueblo, Colo., —5; Goodland, Kas., —4, and Omaha, Neb., and Rapid City, S. D., —1.

terday covered with ice and extensively damaged.

Minnesota's transportation and communication facilities, disrupted by a blizzard, were rapidly returning to normal. The state counted 40 storm victims, 16 of them duck hunters.

Williston, N. D., with a reading of 17 below zero, was the coldest spot on the weather map yesterday. Bismarck, N. D., had minus 16 and various communities in Wyoming, Montana, South Dakota and Iowa reported below zero temperatures.

Houser, 24, of Denver, Colo., University of Denver graduate; Joseph G. Bevilacqua, 24, of Buffalo, N. Y., Tufts college graduate.

On registration day after they were served with subpoenas, the students issued a statement saying, "We do not mean to evade conscription, but to face it in all sincerity, and try to make clear our reasons for not complying with it."

One Carried Bible

One of them carried a bible and a book of philosophy when they went to the federal grand jury room for questioning Oct. 18. The sentencing was in a courtroom crowded with quiet, grave-faced men and women. Court attendances said it was one of the most solemn scenes they had witnessed.

The eight young men surrendered immediately, and were taken to the office of U. S. Marshall Leo Lowenthal to be fingerprinted before removal to the federal house of detention.

Kenneth Walzer, counsel for the students, said "Their consciences hold them to the teachings of the great master."

"They believe those teachings to mean what they say," he went on, "and they find in them instructions to have nothing to do with that mass killing which is called war."

"They cannot register. I put it that way instead of, as Mr. Cahill did, 'They refuse to register,' because they are committed to a great cause."

"Under the law, they could not have been required to serve in the army or navy. They actually gave their names and addresses to the draft board, but they refused to sign the yellow card, submitting a signed statement telling why they had failed to do so."

None of the young men sought leniency.

To Confer With Axis Leaders

ROME, Nov. 14.—(P)—Gen. Ion Antonescu, Rumanian chief of state, arrived in Rome today, presumably to discuss his country's role in the "new order for Europe" designed by the axis, and informed sources said he would go on to Berlin for conferences with Adolf Hitler after talks with Premier Mussolini.

Foreign observers said his visit might be connected with possible German plans to use Rumania, already controlled by German troops, as a base for eventual operations in the Balkans.

Correspondents were told Antonescu's visit represents "consecration of Rumania's definite adherence to the axis, from the viewpoint of both domestic and foreign policy."

"Rumania must now be numbered among the countries which pursue a course in harmony with the axis," said a Fascist source.

In the spirit of that declaration, Premier Mussolini welcomed the chief of the new axis satellite to Rome.

The pope will receive Antonescu Saturday, it was announced at Vatican City.

Still Be Cold In State Tonight

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 14.—(P)—Extremely low temperatures continued in Missouri for the fourth day today as a death was reported from the high wind, which blew the cold wave into the state Monday.

Henry Fertig, 45, manager of a St. Louis truck company, died last night of injuries suffered when he was struck by a falling garage door, which was dislodged by a heavy gust of wind.

There was no material change in temperatures during the past 24 hours, although a prediction of "not quite so cold" was made for the western and northwestern portions for tomorrow.

Low readings included 4 degrees above zero at Kirksville, 6 at St. Joseph, 8 at Columbia, 10 at Kansas City, 12 at Springfield and 16 in St. Louis. With a few exceptions, temperatures did not rise above the freezing mark all day yesterday.

In its shippers' forecast, the weather bureau said minimum temperatures within a 200-mile radius of St. Louis tonight would be: North 10 degrees, south 20 degrees, west 12 degrees.

Champion Cattle At 20 Cents Pound

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 14.—(P)—The grand champion carlot of fat

The best price for steers on the market here yesterday was 12 cents a pound.

base at Alexandria, bombing a cruiser, and shot aerial torpedoes into a convoy in the eastern Mediterranean to sink one steamer and damage another.

Wide land and air action on a scattered front from Greece to the Sudan also were reported by the Italian communiqué.

Into Heart Of Defenses

By Larry Allen
ABOARD A BATTLESHIP OF THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLEET OFF TARANTO, Nov. 14.—(P)—Navy bombing planes swooped in the moonlight into the heart of Taranto's inner defenses Monday night, flinging torpedoes and high explosive bombs at sides and decks of warships. And the pilots said they left one great battleship aflame and two others beached or half submerged.

Sheets of flame leaped from the 35,000-ton Littorio, which the Italians have called the fastest warship in the world.

Pilots said fires burst from the other damaged battleships, both of the 23,622-ton Cavour class.

Air reconnaissance after the attack brought back the word that one Cavour was "half under water," the other beached to prevent sinking and the Littorio still burning.

Slab At London

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(P)—Two light formations of German planes stabbed at London today but British reports said all were turned back by defense fighters before reaching the capital proper.

A few planes which reached the edge of the London area headed around without dropping bombs. The royal air force reported it cleared the skies in less than half an hour.

The two formations tried what appeared to be a pincer movement, attacking from two directions.

The first wave of about a dozen bombers, escorted by three high-flying fighters, crossed the Kent coast and headed for the capital at the same time as another wave of about 20 planes approached from the mouth of the Thames.

Some raiders also were reported in the vicinity of the northeast coast during the morning.

Sirens wailed an alert in London shortly before noon today and Axis raiders were reported over several midlands towns as air attackers began their second year of assaults on British soil.

The "raiders passed" signal sounded after only a brief time in the capital and one German bomber was reported shot down at Poole on the south coast, after a fight with British Spitfires. The crew was said to have been killed.

Weather in the strait of Dover moderated after last night's gale, one of the worst of the year, which hampered the activity of night raiders. Only a few planes were reported over London before an all-clear ended the regularly nightly attack on the city.

In the 12 months since the first bomb of the war dropped on the British soil in an attack on the Shetland Islands Nov. 13, 1939, the government has reported 2,875 raiding planes shot down during assaults on the United Kingdom and shipping.

This represents an approximate loss of about 7,200 men, royal air force defense losses in this same period were reported at 815 fighters, but 405 of the pilots were said to have been saved.

Bombing casualties in the year were reported at about 15,000 killed and 21,500 wounded, 75 per cent in the London area.

Effort To Halt Greeks

ATHENS, Nov. 14.—(P)—The Italians were reported today to be withdrawing large numbers of troops from the Yugoslav frontier and speeding them to southern Albania in an attempt to halt the Greek advance in that sector.

The shift in the Italian troop masses was regarded as an indication not only that the Italians are on the defensive but that the British and Greek air attacks on the Italian naval base at Taranto and other Italian and Albanian bases had held up the transport of reinforcements from the Italian mainland.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—(P)—Destruction of eight British merchant ships, five of them by one submarine and the rest by bombing planes, was claimed today by the high command in continuation of Germany's intensified campaign against vital British shipping.

Severe damage to another vessel was reported.

Deny Dropping Contempt Charge

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 14.—(P)—T. J. Pendergast and two associates failed today in an effort to get a three-judge federal court to drop contempt action against them in connection with the Missouri fire insurance rate settlement.

The court overruled a motion of Pendergast, R. E. O'Malley, former Missouri insurance superintendent, and A. L. McCormack, St. Louis insurance man, to abate and quash an information recommending they be cited for contempt.

The opinion was handed down by the same court that has presided over the litigation in the insurance case for a number of years. It was delivered by Judge Merrill E. Otis, with Judges Kimbrough Stone and Albert L. Reeves concurring.

Under the ruling, the three must go to trial on the contempt information unless some new defense motion is sustained. No trial date has been set.

After the opinion was filed, the judges ordered counsel for the three to file answers to the information by December 14.

Pendergast, O'Malley and McCormack are to go to trial Monday before Federal Judge A. Lee Wyman of Sioux Falls, S. D., on a conspiracy charge growing out of the insurance settlement also.

Steels Lead In A Stocks Upturn

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Rallying leadership switched from one industrial department to another in today's stock market and the net result, despite considerable profit taking, was irregularly higher prices.

Steels led an upturn at the start in lively dealings. These eventually wavered. Coppers then were given a run and were able to hold most of their advances. Selected aircrafts, shipbuilders and senior stocks with sizeable dividend arrangements then stepped aboard and last, but not least, rubber company issues put on a brisk

Eight Youths From Pettis County Are Among Delegation

American Royal Is Host To 4-H Group From Eight States During Three Days

Pettis County produced eight of the 550 boys and girls who made up the official 4-H delegation royally entertained by the American Royal people and all Kansas City, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Boys and girls representing Iowa, Texas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Kansas, Louisiana, Arkansas and Missouri had a grand time together attending the American Royal exhibits and Horse Show, being the guests of one of the largest Kansas City theaters and taking trips through Kansas City factories and packing plants.

As the group assembled on Sunday morning, they were taken in a body to Grace and Hold Trinity Cathedral. In the afternoon 12 large busses conveyed the group on a sight-seeing tour of various parts of Kansas City.

How City Folk Live

A good many of the boys and girls had not had the opportunity of seeing how people live in a large city. A good many of them expressed their appreciation for the wide open spaces of country life. On their stop at Swope Park Zoo, there was much amusement in watching the unusual animals. A stop was also made at Liberty Memorial, where the boys and girls had the opportunity of seeing this endeared monument.

Sunday night the Missouri delegation spent the evening at the Kansas City Airport, patiently waiting for some of the large passenger ships to come in, but due to the stormy weather none arrived. The boys and girls enjoyed having had the opportunity of seeing the airport and watching the people.

Monday was the big day at the Royal. These boys and girls from various states had a special reserved section for the Horse Show and were also special guests that day of Montgomery Ward and Company at a luncheon and tour of their mail order house. Monday night the group was again guests of Kansas City to see two motion pictures.

Window Shopping

Some time Tuesday was allowed for window shopping before the group assembled to take the special street cars to the Nelson Art Gallery, where they were divided into small groups for an instructional tour of the gallery.

This was the first opportunity most of the boys and girls had had to see some of the ancient art which has been preserved in this beautiful building. The next stop was lunch as guests of Swift and Company, followed by a tour of their packing plant. In each of the processes, from the slaughtering to the final curing of pork, beef, and lamb, were shown.

The climax of the event came Tuesday evening at a banquet when recognition was given the 4-H club winner at the American Royal. This event provided thrills beyond mention for most of the boys and girls, who had not previously been guests, at an elaborate banquet featuring the famous Kansas City steaks. The speaker of the evening praised 4-H club work as being one of America's greatest defenses.

Gainful Experience

Virginia White, Betty Jane Kreiser, Dorothy Cole, Chester Wissman, Norvel Brunckhorst, George Anderson, Mildred Kinsey and Billy Bob White, who represented Pettis county, reported having had a wonderful time and having gained much from their experiences.

In order that other boys and girls as well as adults of Pettis county may hear some of the details of their trip, they will not only be represented on the program at the county-wide 4-H Recognition day but will also present the regular 4-H club broadcast at 1:45 that day.

Only those who had the opportunity of being with the boys and girls on this trip can fully realize how much such an event means to Young America.

Recognition Program To Be On Saturday

4-H Members Who Have Finished Work Will Receive Pins

Recognition will be given 4-H members who completed their year's work by the Pettis County Farm Bureau through a special 4-H Recognition Day program, including the presentation of 4-H achievement pins, on Saturday afternoon, in the assembly room of the court house.

Some 4-H members have already received their pins at community achievement programs but they, too, will be honored at this ceremony. The program starts at 1:30 p. m., with Mrs. P. S. Read, Home and Community Committee chairman of the Farm Bureau, presiding.

The 4-H pledge, repeated in unison, and group singing, will precede the presentation of 4-H pins by R. W. Dow, Farm Bureau president.

One or two short numbers by 4-H members themselves, including a report on the American Royal 4-H conference by one of the county's official delegates, will add to the occasion.

A discussion of activities carried on by clubs and club members outside of the regular project requirements will be led by Mrs. O. R. Demand of Smithton.

4-H leaders and all 4-H members are being invited by the Farm Bureau to attend this event, and all other interested persons will be welcomed.

3-Day Poultry School Begins On Monday

Two Daily Sessions Will Be Held At Pettis Court House

The three day Pettis county Poultry school will be held in the assembly room of the court house on November 18, 19, and 27. Each session of the school will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning and close at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

During this school, principles of nutrition and feeding practices, poultry sanitation and control of parasites, diseases, and vices, poultry flock management, practical poultry breeding, and marketing eggs and poultry, will be discussed by C. E. Rohde, Extension Poultryman and Dr. A. W. Uren, Extension Veterinarian, of the College of Agriculture, University of Missouri.

The object of this school is to provide fundamental information on the principles of your poultry business. The material presented will be up-to-date and involve the practical application of experimental findings from all over the United States.

Each person who attends the school will be provided with lesson material representing a summary of the information discussed. Each lesson will be illustrated with lantern slides and a sound movie will be shown during the first session.

Pettis county poultry owners are invited to attend this school and to register Monday morning, which is the first day.

Differences In Molasses And Sorghum Told By Specialist

The difference in molasses and sorghum and their differences in using are told by Miss Flora Carl, state extension foods specialist, University of Missouri College of Agriculture.

True molasses is a by-product of the manufacture of sugar from the sugar cane plant. When the pure sugar is removed, the minerals and other products which give flavor and color are left in the remaining juice. The more sugar is removed, the stronger, darker, and cruder is the molasses so that there is light and dark molasses.

Real sorghum is made from the juice of the sorghum plant. For table use and cooking, sorghum and molasses are used interchangeably. Both may vary considerably in flavor, color, thickness, and clarity.

Sorghum and molasses are not as sweet as sugar. It takes approximately 1 1/2 cups of molasses to be equivalent to 1 cup of sugar in sweets. Sorghum and molasses also contain an acid, so when they are used in place of sugar soda is used to neutralize this acid. Usually 1 1/2 teaspoon of soda is used for each cup of molasses.

Molasses is heavier than sugar since it takes two cups of granulated sugar to weigh a pound, but only 1 1/2 cups of molasses. Unless carefully and properly proportioned and handled, cakes, breads, and other baked products made with molasses are likely to be heavy.

Cakes made with molasses tend to remain moist and fresh-tasting longer than those made with sugar, but not as long as those made with honey. Molasses burns at a low temperature so all products containing relatively high proportions of it should be cooked slowly.

Molasses is to be preferred to plain sugar, from the standpoint of good nutrition, because it carries along with its calories other needed food elements, particularly iron, calcium, and vitamin B. White sugar has only calories to offer.

Uses Binder To Cut Kaffir Crop

Using what was left of an old grain binder, put to a practical use, was a piece of ingenuity on the part of Fred L. Brownfield, Farm Security Administration borrower, living in the Bethel community, in harvesting his kaffir crop.

Mr. Brownfield was not getting along so well in cutting his kaffir for fodder and since necessity is the mother of invention, he discussed with two of his neighbors, Herbert and Richard Frerking, also FSA borrowers, the possibility of "rigging up" the old grain binder, to get the job done.

They believed that if they took off the grain reel and disconnected the binder mechanism, which was long since worn out, forgot about canvas—and use the platform to catch the kaffir as it was cut and also to stand on to keep the cut fodder coming back straight much of the problem would be solved.

The old binder was dragged out and revamped into a fodder cutter was begun. When completed the next job was to see whether it would work. It did—cutting two rows at a time.

At the end of the first one-half day of use they cut and shocked 30 extra large shocks. The three have maintained an average of 50 to 60 shocks a day—with their improvised corn cutter from an old discarded grain binder.

Varied Answers Are Given To Best Likes About Farm Clubs

The 1940 program book of home economics extension clubs indicated that the October roll call was to be answered with "What I Like Best About My Club." The answers given to this roll call were varied, unusual and interesting.

Some of the women said that their club afforded the only opportunity for a real visit with neighbors and only a short time needs to be spent at a club meeting to realize what a splendid job of visiting is done. However, visiting is not the only virtue found in the clubs as many of the women responded by saying that the exchange of ideas helps materially in the improvement of family life.

Along with the exchange of ideas was expressed an appreciation for the information and methods received in the demonstrations and discussions.

"I like the spirit of friendliness and cooperation," said a Sunnyside member.

An Oak Grove member said she especially enjoyed the Roll Call as it gave each member an opportunity to express her individuality. "The national scope of extension clubs appeals to me," said a Blackwater Progressive member, when answering her roll call. Sunshine pals meant most to a Dresden member.

Good food and the sociability that goes with it were mentioned in all clubs along with the opportunity for developing friendships and having fun.

Although each member gave only one thing about her club that she liked, the feeling was expressed that the clubs contributed much that might otherwise not be obtainable.

Governor Stark Speaks At Show

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 13—(P)—Governor Lloyd C. Stark praised the American Live Stock and Horse Show today as a way of welding together farm and city populations, then turned to national defense by saying it was "to keep our nation at peace that we are arming."

Speaking on Missouri Day at the exposition, Gov. Stark watched the judging of 100 of Missouri's finest mules as part of the program in which 40 bands from over the state participated.

"We have assembled to pay tribute to royalty," the governor said. "The only kind of royalty we acknowledge in free America, I refer to the blue-blooded livestock."

Of national defense, he said the nation was determined to build a "national defense so strong no nation would dare attack us."

"We all want peace, we all pray for peace and it is to keep our nation at peace that we are arming this great nation."

Stretching For Women Advised

"Stretch a little farther or we will think you're getting old," was a remark made by one of the Stokley women at their extension club meeting last week when the game leader, Mrs. W. T. Summer-skil, had the group doing health exercises.

These women forgot their troubles and their tasks as they went merrily about the house hunting stair steps on which to do one of the exercises.

The young and the older alike stretched out on the floor to practice some of the "flat on your back" exercises. Not only young and old but big and little participated in the game of "put" which required some real stretching and bending.

At the end of the fifteen minutes of exercises every woman was feeling fine.

One woman who had about the best posture in the group said—"I do my exercises every morning when I first get up." She is gaining her years gracefully.

Shy "Flannel Queen" Sees Red

When a festival queen is shy about posing—that's news! Yet that's just what happened when Maxine Yeargin, above, 15-year-old Chicago miss, was chosen queen of the annual Red Flannel Festival at Cedar Springs, Mich. Shyly declining to be pictured in women's flannels, she lets photographers snap her in men's—which, press agent points out, women can use as pajamas.

Goal To Go

YESTERDAY: Landis is furious when the scrub team plows through the variety using Buck's play. He orders Bill from the back, discovers Buck has an offer to sell movie cameras to football coaches. His work will take him away. Bill pleads with him to wait, rest. Meanwhile, he remembers Dot.

CHAPTER V

ON Saturday the West squad journeyed to Clayton and absorbed a 34 to 6 beating. On Sunday the Clarion carried a scorching column by Pat Hurly: "With a wealth of excellent material at his disposal, Coach Landis continues merrily to squander it on defeat. . . ."

On his way to class Monday morning, Bill met Drowsy Peters, who said slyly, "The wolves are starting to howl, Bill. And the power of the press is at work, as they say in journalism class. Everybody's betting Landis won't finish the season."

"So what?" Bill demanded irritably. "What can I do about it?" "Oh, nothing," Drowsy winked and jerked his thumb at Dot Skelton, whose slim legs were just disappearing around a corner. "I just thought you might like to think over my idea about Dot. . . ."

DOT was in the cafeteria at noon. She smiled meltingly at Bill and he surprised her by smiling back. But he couldn't bring himself to go over to her table. He knew what Buck would say about making up to a girl because she had influence.

All afternoon and during the early part of the evening Bill fought with his scruples. He finally made up his mind. He wouldn't just play up to Dot; he'd really like her. After all, she was cute and pretty. A fellow didn't have to go with just one girl, did he? He'd never told Helen they were going steady. . . .

Dot came in to Peskin's that evening with three girls. Bill girded himself for the attack. He felt like a heel as he said with a smile, "Hello, Dot." She raised lovely green eyes to him. "Do you know, Bill, that you've smiled at me twice today?"

Bill fumbled for something smooth to say. "I guess all the fellows smile at you, Dot." "All except one," she said with an air of pique. "A girl always likes a fellow that's a little . . . well, aloof."

Dot's three companions watched this display of technique in silent admiration. When Bill returned with the orders, Dot continued:

Bill Asks Dot to Go To the School Party; Helen Is Neglected

"I was just telling the girls I think they're mean not to walk home with me. With that awful sack bandit at large it isn't safe for a girl to be on the street alone. Do you think so, Bill?"

"No," Bill said with a gulp. For a horrible moment he was left poised on the brink of the question. Then, setting his jaw, he plunged over. "I'm finished at 10, Dot. If you're really afraid, I—I guess I could go with you."

"Oh, Bill!" Dot uttered the words as if she were accepting a proposal of marriage. "That would be just grand."

"You've changed, Bill," she told him. "Maybe I've always liked you," Bill said, trying to believe his own words. "But your father's a big shot and I'm—"

"Bill! How silly!" "Well, a fellow has to consider those things, Dot. If Buck had a good job somewhere, like coaching, I'd feel different. But just because he can't get around without canes, they won't give him a chance."

"You mean if things were different for your father you'd like to see more of me?" Bill hesitated, then said faintly, "Yes."

Dot was an opportunist. "Like taking me to the dance Saturday night?"

"But I've already . . ." "You know, Bill," Dot interrupted shrewdly, "I've always said Buck Mentor would make a swell coach. If I tried, I could sell Father on the idea. The rest of the board just does what he tells them and he's pretty crazy about his little daughter. . . ."

The big white Skelton mansion loomed up ahead. Dot slid her hand into Bill's. "I could do a lot for someone I liked, Bill."

Bill's throat was dry, but he managed to pry the words loose: "Dot, I'd like to have you. . . I mean, will you go with me to . . . to the dance Saturday night?"

"Why, Bill, honey! You're the sweetest boy in the world to invite me. I think I'll give you a kiss."

Bill retreated a step, but too late. Satin-soft lips pressed hard against his mouth. "You're a nice boy," Dot murmured. "I'm going to see you often, aren't I?" Bill watched her slim figure vanish up the winding driveway, then he turned slowly homeward. His lips tingled from Dot's kiss; guiltily he brushed his hand across them as if to wipe the feeling away.

DEEP in thought, he didn't see Helen until he was almost on his own porch. She was standing in the shadows of the big maple and called his name softly.

"Bill, I've got the grandest surprise. Guess what?"

"What?" Bill asked, dully. "You don't sound very interested," Helen laughed. She stepped closer to him, her eyes sparkling in the street light. "Bill, my brother gave me money to get a new dress for the dance. I'm so thrilled I could cry."

"That's fine, Helen," Bill said. She stiffened. "Is something wrong, Bill? You don't even seem glad."

"Sure I am, Helen, but . . ." "Bill Mentor, what ails you?" Bill said painfully, "Helen, I—I can't take you Saturday night."

Helen seemed to shrink down into the shadows. "Bill, I don't understand. You're joking, aren't you? Why, we've planned this for weeks. You must be joking."

Bill cleared his throat, but the choking lump remained. "I can't take you," he repeated doggedly. "I—I'm sorry."

"But—" She turned away from Bill a moment, and he knew she was crying. He blinked his eyes and almost wished he could cry, too. He felt like it.

She turned, dabbing at her eyes, and smiled. "I'm sorry to be such a baby, Bill. It was just that I'd counted on it so, and the new dress seemed to make things perfect. But I understand how it is if Mr. Peskin makes you work."

Bill said with desperate honesty, "It . . . it's not Mr. Peskin, Helen. I—I well, I'm taking another girl."

"Oh . . ." Helen pressed taut knuckles against her mouth. "Another girl . . ."

Bill nodded miserably. "Dot Skelton."

"Bill, you couldn't . . ." Suddenly Helen's crumpled little figure straightened in defiance. "I hope you have a . . . wonderful time, Bill," she choked. With a sob, she whirled and fled into the house.

Cautions For Japan On Far East Policies

Lamont Favors Increased Aid By U. S. To Britain

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—(P)—Thomas Lamont last night sounded "a friendly but urgent caution" to Japan to change her Far Eastern policies and declared that "our only effective answer to her constantly increasing aid to England and continued and additional aid to China."

Abandon Theories

Lamont, a J. P. Morgan partner, and for 20 years chairman of the international consortium for the assistance of China, said in his prepared address as presiding officer at the Academy's 60th anniversary dinner, that "Japan must abandon once and for all in the Far East the Nazi theory of racial superiority and the idea of 'Asia's new order.'"

Saying "there is every reason" why Japan and China should use their propinquity for "close and lasting relationship," Lamont emphasized that he was "not proposing any form of American appeasement towards any part of the axis."

"What I am doing," he declared, "is to sound a friendly but urgent caution to that old friend and now new axis partner, Japan."

Friendly Attitude

Lamont said that America's attitude "has always been one of friendliness," and he cited numerous occasions of United States aid to the island empire, specifically that given after the earthquake and fire of 1923, at which time, he said, the American Red Cross contributed $10,000,000 to relieve suffering.

He said Germany induced Japan to join the axis in an effort to "turn our eyes from the Atlantic to the Pacific and thus slacken our aid to England."

He asserted the "attempt to throw Americans into a panic" had failed, and he advised Japan that "if the time comes when she needs help, Germany and Italy can and will afford their Far Eastern ally no aid whatsoever.

Will Encourage Japan

"They will encourage Japan to do all she can by herself to irritate and damage American and British interests, but that will be the extent of their aid."

Lamont suggested the possibility of further development of the partial embargo policy the United States already has invoked against Japan, adding that "our government has only to make clear, through appropriate announcement, what its policies are and those policies will immediately be followed by the American business world."

"It is not for the business man to attempt to initiate the nation's foreign policies. But if Washington decides it to be essential to our defense program not to ship to Japan material for bombs; or if it further decides that Japan's available exchange would be reduced by restricting our Japanese purchases, American trade interests will not fail to cooperate."
